

Brook Hill has been a fair housing attorney for a decade and has over twenty five years of experience working on housing issues in various capacities. He is currently the Acting Project Director for the Fair Housing Project at the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law. As an attorney he has focused on representing community-based organizations and organized groups of tenants in cases dealing with exclusionary zoning, public housing demolition, housing discrimination, uninhabitable conditions and other tenants' rights issues. He specializes in complex litigation involving collective and class actions and organizational plaintiffs. Mr. Hill also sits on the Shared Leadership Team of ONE DC, a community-based organization fighting for affordable housing, tenants' rights and workers' rights. Prior to attending law school Mr. Hill was a community organizer with NY ACORN and later NY Communities for Change (NYCC). He organized around foreclosure prevention and tenants' rights. Mr. Hill earned his Juris Doctor from Georgetown University Law Center in 2016. He is licensed to practice in the District of Columbia Superior Court and the Federal District Court for the District of Columbia.
